Hillary Kletscher works in Corporate Strategy for Cargill Inc., a global agribusiness that brings food, agricultural, financial, and industrial products to people who need them around the world. She is responsible for strategy development through analysis and relationship management across various businesses within Cargill. Her projects to-date include a business strategy for Cargill Cocoa & Chocolate, an optimization strategy for Cargill’s Risk Management business, and a corporate Land Use sustainability strategy, among others. She is currently working on a business strategy for Cargill’s grain origination and processing business in South America.

Hillary started at Cargill in 2014 as an engineering intern at a corn milling facility and completed two Cargill internships before beginning full-time. She also held sales and marketing internships.

Hillary earned a bachelor degree in Biological Systems Engineering from Iowa State University, as well as a Master of Business Administration. During her time at Iowa State, Hillary served as Student Body President, only the 13th female in the history of Iowa State to do so. She held numerous other leadership roles, including Minnesota FFA State President during her freshman year. She currently serves on the Young Alumni Council for the Iowa State Alumni. She also volunteers with Toys for Tots and supports Cargill’s engagement with Iowa State University.

Hillary enjoys traveling, reading historical fiction, exercise classes, and spending time with friends and family. She grew up on a corn and soybean farm in rural, southwestern Minnesota. Hillary and her fiancé, Corey, live in Minnetonka, Minnesota.
